TAFT FORGES AHEAD AS STATES LINE UP FOR NATIONAL RACE.

Secretary of War Now Has Two-Thirds of Instructed Delegates
Chosen For Chicago Convention.

Summary of Delegates Elected to Republican National Convention.

Total delegates in convention.....	980
Necessary to a choice.....	491
Elected to date.....	186
Instructed for Taft.....	120
Instructed for Fairbanks.....	26
Instructed for Cannon.....	4
Instructed for Hughes.....	2
Uninstructed, but favorable to Taft.....	6
Contested.....	28

Two-thirds of all the delegates so far elected to the Republican national convention next June have been instructed for Secretary of War Taft, and he practically has one-fourth of the delegates necessary to insure his nomination.

New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois are the big delegations which are yet to be chosen, and while the secretary will secure little, if any, instructed support from these states, it is believed to be certain that a large part of the delegates will go to the Ohio man when the break comes.

In all other states where conventions are to be held, the secretary is far and away the strongest candidate, and all reports go to indicate that President Roosevelt knew where he was speaking in when he predicted that Taft would be nominated on the first ballot.

Six of the delegates elected are uninstructed, except as to suggestion that they nominate someone who will carry out the policies of President Roosevelt, while of the twenty-eight contests reported, one state of the delegates in each case is instructed for Taft.

Nowhere in Kentucky are the good sense and liberal, just views of the people to be commended than in Breckenridge county. We raise tobacco, lots of it. We are organized as growers, we want good prices and right treatment from buyer and grower and these are things that have universally been given and receive. Tobacco has been sold at good prices and delivered in a satisfactory manner. Money has passed to the hands of the growers in exchange for their commodity and contentment and reasonable prosperity have reigned. The "dove of peace" perches with us and she and reason would have it. No plant bed scraping, no night riding, no threatening, nothing but that calm and wisely adherence to the Golden Rule that marks this section of Kentucky as one that will in the future as in the past, rise by reason, never resorting to the cover of the darkness to do an unlawful deed, even when it is done with the belief that good may be as a forced consequence. We are proud of Breckenridge county and her record. May she live long and lose none of her good name for justice, moderation and a legal way of going for what she would have different

BILLY SUNDAY IN DECATUR.

The Great Base Ball Player and Evangelist Holding a Great Revival.

J. T. DITTO SENDS PARTICULARS

The Breckenridge News is enjoying the Decatur Review which Mr. John T. Ditto has sent that the staff might get the particulars of the Sunday revival being held in Decatur, Ill. The revival has been going on five weeks for the purpose of getting voters to vote whisky out of that city at a coming election.

The Sunday meetings are being held in a tabernacle erected by volunteer labor. Some of the most prominent lawyers, doctors, merchants and other men of Decatur worked on the structure. Mr. Ditto put in a day's work on it. The building seats 4,500 persons and every night since the revival began people have been turned away by the thousands. The audience begins assembling at the tabernacle at 5:30 in the afternoon, and remains there until 10 o'clock and later.

Some of Sunday's preaching is: "Go home and live your religion. Bake bread, sweep the house, wash the dishes, dress the children, slop the hogs, harness the horses with your religion. Live your homecoming over again. Buy your wife some flowers. She'll wear longer over the washboard."

Prof. H. A. Howell, of Savannah, Cuba
Recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"As long ago as I can remember my mother was a faithful user and friend of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, but never in my life have I realized its true value until now," writes Prof. H. A. Howell, of Howell's American School, Havana, Cuba. "On the night of February 7, our baby was taken sick with a very severe cold, the next day was worse and the following night his condition was desperate. He could not lie down and it was necessary to have him in the arms every moment. Even then his breathing was difficult. I did not think he would live until morning. At last I thought of my mother's remedy, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which we gave, and it afforded prompt relief, and now, three days later, he has fully recovered. Under the circumstances I would not hesitate a moment in saying that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and that only, saved the life of our dear little boy." For sale by Severs' Drug Co.

The New Princess-Dress Effect.

"One-piece princess dresses will be among the favored fashions for spring," says Grace Margaret Gould, the fashion editor, in the March, the Spring Fashion Number of the Woman's Home Companion.

"They are cut out at the neck to show a guimp, and are made sleeveless, or with half sleeves, showing the guimp sleeve below. A year ago a dress of this sort would have been more apt to be developed in some high-priced fabric and used only as a bod dress. This spring it will be regarded as an every-day fashion, and be made of such materials as panama, mohair and light-weight serge.

Bridge Proposition Feasible.

Mr. James Myers and Spire Bob Sheets, of West Point, are very much encouraged over prospects of building the bridge across Salt river. Capt. Burgess, U. S. Engineer, of Louisville, has viewed the proposed site and it looks from his report that the government will allow the bridge to be constructed as it will not interfere with the navigation of Salt river. The banks where the bridge will be constructed are fifty feet above low water mark and when the stream over flows it is not navigable because there is no place to land. It is thought that the government will allow the bridge to be built eight feet higher than the I. C. bridge which would allow the steamer Hellview to pass under during high water and make the abutments just thirty feet higher than the banks. The bridge will be a single span of 250 feet and will cost complete about $25,000. The approaches on the Jefferson side which will have to be built by Jefferson county will cost about $10,000 and the approaches on the Hardin side will be 300 feet and will cost about $3,000. As soon as the survey can be raised at West Point the survey and plans for the bridge the matter of its construction will be taken up with the War Department. The bridge proposition now seems entirely feasible and we can see no reason why it should not be built. Elizabethtown Mirror.

Christine Bradley South

Helped Her Father Win.

L-ington, Ky., March 7.—Mrs. Christine Bradley South, of Frankfort, Ky., the only child of the newly-elected United States senator, William O. Bradley, has been a great help to her father during his political fights, and especially in the one which closed here last Friday. Mrs. South is a typical Kentucky girl. She is a perfect exponent of the far-famed Kentucky hospitality and it has often been said by strangers that five minutes after you have met Mrs. South you feel as if you had known her all her life. She has been her father's confident and advisor since leaving school, and it is largely owing to her tact and good judgment that he captured the United States senatorship from Gov. Beckham with odds apparently so overwhelmingly against him.

She knows every politician of importance in the state, and with a woman's instinct, is often enabled to counsel her father so that he will not become compromised with unscrupulous men who might be seeking to use him to further their own interests. She was at the balloting for senator nearly every day during the campaign and did much toward cheering her father's spirits when everything looked so dark for him. She is a charming conversationalist and by her brilliant powers in this respect and her magnetic personality she won over many men to her father's cause. But perhaps the greatest pleasure she experienced was when the anti-Democrats went over to the Republicans and nominated her father.

Directly after the election Mrs. South said: "This is the happiest day of my life, for father is elected senator and the dream of his life has been fulfilled. Of course I have always rejoiced when he was successful, but this time the fight has been so long and bitter and his opposition so strong that I feel that his election is the greatest triumph of his life." Mrs. South is the wife of Dr. John G. South, a rising young physician of Frankfort and a strong Democrat. Mrs. South will likely accompany her father to Washington, and spend most of the season with him, as she is already well known at the capital.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

EIGHT PAGES.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 18, 1908.

"It makes us all glad when the boys grow up good, honest, reliable men," says the Farm Journal. "One of the surest ways to have them so is for father to be that way himself. It is easier to tramp through the snow if some one has been that way before you and made a path."

The Farm Journal is chuck full of gumption, and has the largest circulation of any farm paper in the world. It is good everywhere. We offer, for a short time, a combination subscription, to advance-paying subscribers to the Breckenridge News a year ahead, and the Farm Journal for the balance of 1908, and all of 1909, 1910, 1911 and 1912, both papers for only $1.25. No other paper around here can offer this.

GIVE HIM A CHANCE.

Don't let the boy have to ask, or, worse yet, tease, for every cent of spending money. Every child should contribute his share to the work of the farm, simply because it is right, and by no means should he expect pay for doing his duty. However, to cultivate a spirit of thrift and independence, the orphan lamb, the pot pig, or a few hens, may well be the property of the small boy, and any money accruing therefrom, his also. The larger boy may cultivate a parcel of the farm (small or large, according to circumstances) on shares, with results satisfactory to father and son alike. It will be found that the average boy will be as careful and wise in expending his own money as his father's money. Farm Journal.

The News endorses every word of our Hardinsburg correspondent. It is well said and snacks of the right spirit. As the News has said all along, there is no trouble in our good old county of Breckenridge. There can be no trouble when every man does his duty, to himself, his neighbor and his God. That's just what we all should strive to do. Let every man govern himself and his own business before he turns his attention to his neighbors. All pull and work together. Give every man a square deal and a fair chance, whether he be a tenant, land owner or dealer. This applies to the raising of tobacco, as well as merchandising or any calling in this good land of ours. Good fellowship and fair dealing in everything should be the key-note. Don't give currency to idle gossip and evil reports. Suppress the night rider talk and you'll kill the night riders. Get right down to your own business, do the best you can, raise as much as you can, of good stuff, and you will always find a market and a good price.

MRS. MARY MEYER.

Mrs. Mary Meyer, Thomson Avenue, near Shell Road, Winfield, L. I., N. Y., writes:

"I have been annoyed with a cough for years. Often it was so bad that I could not sleep half the night. Many people thought I had consumption."

"A woman recommended Peruna to me two years ago. I began to take Peruna, and now I am perfectly free from a cough. I am glad to say that Peruna cured me entirely."

"I take Peruna occasionally, when I do not feel well, and I also give it to my children."

"Peruna is the best medicine for coughs and colds. I have told many people how much Peruna has helped me."

Mrs. Hettie Green, R. R. No. 6, Iuka, Ill., writes as follows of the efficacy of Peruna:

"Last November I had catarrh and felt so miserable I thought that I would go into consumption."

"I tried so many doctors and medicines, but nothing did me any good, only Peruna."

"After I began the use of Peruna I began to improve in every way. My head did not hurt so much, my stomach is all right, my bowels are regular, my appetite good, my complexion clear, my eyes are bright and am gaining in flesh and strength."

"I think Peruna has no equal as a catarrh remedy."

"Peruna tends to lessen the cough, decreases the expectoration, strengthens the patient, increases the appetite and in many cases procures sound, refreshing sleep."

Miss Jessie Wheatley is taking music lessons on the violin from Kirtley Kincaid, of Patesville.

MISS BELLAH B. BROOME.

Miss Bellah B. Broome, 409 12th St., N. E., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have suffered from weak lungs and catarrhal troubles for four years, brought on by many neglected colds, but on the recommendation of a friend I gave Peruna an honest trial and I am pleased to state that it restored me to perfect health. There is not the slightest trace of catarrh in my system and my lungs are perfectly sound."

"I unhesitatingly give this testimony."

Mrs. William Hohmann, 508 N. Paulina St., Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I suffered with catarrh of the bronchial tubes and had a terrible cough ever since a child. After a while it got so bad I had to cough both winter and summer. Finally, I burst a blood vessel in my throat from the strain of coughing, next a blood vessel in my stomach, so I kept getting worse and doctoring, and even then could get no relief. I thought, and every body else, that I had consumption."

"Reading the papers about Peruna I decided to try it, without the least bit of hope that it would do me any good. But after taking three bottles I noticed a change. My appetite got better, so I kept on, never got discouraged."

"Finally I seemed not to cough so much, and the pains in my chest got better. I am well now. I cannot tell you how grateful I am, and I cannot thank Peruna enough. It has cured where doctors have failed. People who think they have consumption better give it a trial."

day evening with Mrs. Anna Howe.

Miss Jessie Wheatley is taking music lessons on the violin from Kirtley Kincaid, of Patesville.

MISS JOSE SCHAEZTEL.

Miss Jose Schaeztel, General Delivery, Appleton, Wisconsin, writes:

"I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs in very short order, and it was not long until it developed into a serious case of catarrh. Every morning I would raise a lot of phlegm, which was very disagreeable. My digestion was poor and my lungs sore."

"After a few doses of Peruna I began to mend, and felt that if I kept on taking it it would not be long until I would be well. I was right, for in four weeks I was well again."

"I think Peruna is a grand medicine, and wish to add my testimony to the many others you have."

The fight against consumption is becoming a national problem.

Everywhere we hear of sanitariums established at the expense of the state for the treatment of the vast array of consumptives.

The open air treatment, fresh air and sunlight, are recognized by the medical profession generally as being the greatest necessities in the treatment of consumption in all its stages.

Dr. Hartman has for many years advocated the fresh air treatment for consumption. At the same time he has recognized Peruna as a useful palliative for the many distressing symptoms which accompany the white plague.

The promises with which Peruna relieves a fresh cold, and even removes chronic colds, is well-known. This ranks Peruna as a reliable prophylactic against consumption.

Quitting the Business.

Our old friend, Thos. Anderson, of Bewleyville, sizes up the tobacco situation this way. He said: "When I was a boy they whipped me to make me work in the tobacco patch. Now they want to whip me if I do work in it, so I have decided to quit the business and go at something else. I don't like it very much any way."

The World Goes On.

CUSTER.

Miss Edna Dowell is a pleasant visitor in our town, with her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Cooke.

Miss Carrie Gilpin is visiting the family of Eli Johnson at Guston. She will be absent several weeks.

Mr. Burnett is again with his old friends, Dr. and Mrs. Meador.

Trade is always lively in Custer, but this year, there never was a brisker little town of its size in the state. Our farmers are always busy and generally have something to sell.

Alf Taylor returned from a business trip to the city Wednesday.

There are fifteen telephone lines running into the switchboard headquarters at Ben Harrell's.

We have mud, mud, mud. Our road from Custer to Gardfield is something to be dreaded by the wagons.

Filmore Johnson bought a horse from Mrs. Elphinstone Board. Consideration unknown.

Milk cows are in great demand and bringing good prices.

Wesley Harrington, who recently had a sale of his household goods and farming chattels and farm to Jim Kirtley, contemplates moving his family to Elmhurst, Ill. He will take up rail-roading as his future means of livelihood.

A nice one year old colt, owned by Alf Taylor, ran against a barbed wire fence and lacerated itself dreadfully. There is grave fear that the animal will have to be killed to put it out of its misery.

John Cooke will go to Louisville Monday to finish the sales of his tobacco purchase. After settling up his tobacco business he is thinking seriously of taking a Western tour on the look out for investment or probably a location for a new home.

John Sally Tucker, who resided here in Custer for a number of years, now lives two miles out from town; she was eighty-five years old March 10, and walked from her home to Custer that day over a bad muddy road to do a little shopping, carrying a basket of eggs and an oil can. Two years ago Aunt Sally was a very sick woman, was paralyzed and in a bad shape in every way, but being possessed with a strong will, she recovered and is now, for one of her age, remarkably hale and hearty.

John Butler and son, Hobert, were in Harned Tuesday and Wednesday. They were called to see Mrs. Wm. Butler, mother-in-law to Mr. John Butler, who is very sick.

Americus Smith sold a nice mule to Mark Carter for $95. John Cook two miles in trade with Jas. Kirtley for a horse and the difference.

The remains of Will Hudson, who died at his home at Elizabethtown, were taken to the Sharp burying ground for burial. His death was caused from consumption. Mr. Hudson is a son of Jeff Hudson and formerly lived with his father at the old Hudson homestead, near Constantine.

Will Harrington of Constantine, is recovering from a severe case of bronchial pneumonia.

A lamp exploded at the home of William Sutton's a short time ago. No damage was done, however. Some papers on the table were burned and the oil was scattered in many directions, giving the family a bad scare.

Squire Harned is able to be out again passing pleasantities of the day with his many friends. Mr. Harned has been a sufferer for some time with risings in both ears. His friends are glad to see him out again.

Little Dewey Board, son of H. W. Board, is better after a hard spell of pneumonia.

Logan Butler has made quite a change in the looks of his town property. He has cut down all the large trees standing on the North and East side of the residence. Mr. Butler thought the sunshine would be better than the dense shade.

Saved A $170.00 Mare When A Veterinary Failed To Cure Her

"While serving as an officer on the steamship Montezuma, which carried horses and mules to South Africa," writes Mr. G. H. H. Rowe, of Sparta, Ill., "I saw Sloan's Sure Colic Cure used on the horses and never saw a case of colic prove too much for it."

"We had 1,250 horses on board for over a month, so that we had a good opportunity to test the remedy thoroughly."

"The veterinary used Sloan's Liniment, also, for sore shoulders and sprains, and the horses were landed in a particularly fine condition."

"I know of another case here in Sparta, Ill., where Sloan's Sure Colic Cure saved a $170 mare after the veterinary had failed to cure her."

The Fighting Chance.

was a fearful note. He opened it, reading it as he walked back to the dripping burning beside his bed.

"Did you not mean to say goodbye?" Because it is to be goodbye for a long time—for all our lives—as long as we live as long as the world lasts and longer, goodbye—unless you care to say it to me.

He stood studying the note for a while. Presently, lighting a match, he set fire to it and carried it blissing to the grate and flung it in, watching the blackened ashes curl up, glow, white and fall in flakes to the hearth. Then he went out into the corridor and traversed the hall to the passage which led to the bay window. There was nobody there. Moving swiftly, he walked the length of the corridor and, halting at her door, knocked once.

After a moment the door swung open. He stepped forward into the room, closing the door behind him, and confronted the tall girl standing there, disheveled against the lamp behind her.

"You are insane to do this!" she whispered. "I let you in for fear you'd knock again!"

"I want to the bay window," he said. "You went too late. I was there an hour ago. I waited. Do you know what time it is?"

"Come to the bay window," he said. "If you fear me here!"

"Do you know it is nearly 3 o'clock?" repeated. "And you leave at 6?"

"I shall see you goodbye here?" he asked coolly.

"Certainly, I dare not go out. And you—do you know the chances we are running? You must be perfectly mad to come to my room. Do you think anybody could have seen—heard you?"

"No. Good night." He offered his hand. She laid both of her hands in his. He could scarcely distinguish her features where she stood dark against the brilliant light behind her.

"Goodbye," he whispered, kissing her hands where they lay in his.

"Goodbye!" Her fingers closed convulsively, retaining his hands. "I hope you will never see me again."

"I hope so," he said, and then he turned and went out.

"I hope so," he said, and then he turned and went out.

"I hope so," he said, and then he turned and went out.

"I hope so," he said, and then he turned and went out.

"I think that you"— Her head was drooping. She could not control her voice.

"Goodbye, Sylvia," he said again. It was quite useless—she could not speak and when he looked in his arms she clung to him, quivering, and he kissed the wet lashes and the hot, trembling lips and the smooth little limbs, crushed to his breast.

"We have a year yet," she gasped. "Don't take me by force before it ends. I—I really cannot endure this. I told you to take me from me from my self. Will you do it? I will love you—truly, truly! Oh, my darling, my darling! Don't—don't give me up! Can't you do something for me? Can't you?"

"Will you come with me now?" "How can?"

"Will you?" "Will you?" A sudden sound broke out in the night—the distant pealing of the lodge gate bell. Startled, she shrank back; somebody in the adjoining room had sprung to the door and was opening the window.

"What is it?" she motioned, with shivering lips. "Quick, oh, quick, before you are seen! Grace may come! I—I beg of you go!"

As he stepped into the corridor he heard below a sound at the great door and the stirring of the night watchman on post. At his own door he turned, listening to the movement and whispering. Fervent in dressing gown and slippers, fell into the corridor. Below the chains were rattling as the wicket swung open. There was a brief parley at the door, sounds of retreating steps on the gravel outside, sounds of approaching steps on the stairway.

"What is that?" A telegram? said Ferial sharply. "Here, give it to me! Wait! It isn't for me. It's for Mr. Steward!"

Steward's glazed eyes stared and stared at the scrawled and inky message.

Your mother is very ill. Come at once. The signature was the name of their family physician, Gribby.

This is what Hon. Jake Moore, State Warden of Georgia, says of Kodol for Dyspepsia: "E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Dear Sir—I have suffered more than twenty years from indigestion. About eighteen months ago I had grown so much worse that I could not digest a crust of corn bread and could not retain anything on my stomach. I lost 35 lbs. in fact I made up my mind that I could not live but a short time when a friend of mine recommended Kodol. I consented to try it to please him and I was better in one day. I now weigh more than I ever did in my life and am in better health than for many years. Kodol did it. I keep a bottle constantly, and write this hoping that humanity will be benefited. Yours very truly, Jake C. Moore, Atlanta, Aug. 10, 1904. Sold by all druggists.

Her Game Blocked. The timid looking little woman on the Kuchel car noticed that her purse was not to her bag where she had placed it. Instead, it was hanging from her arm on a chain—hanging in full view where it would tempt the nimble fingers of the pickpockets and lead to that beat. With great forethought she picked up the purse and started to put it in the bag. But the purse didn't go in, because it was attached to the arm of the persimmon faced woman standing next to her. Of course the woman with the bag stopped right there and looked the stranger's purse.

"You'd better let that alone," spoke up the persimmon faced woman. "I've been watching you ever since you got on, and you couldn't find it. I didn't see what you were trying to do."—Cleveland Plain Dealer

SCIENCE AND ART.

A Storm as Pictured by the Weather Bureau as seen by a Poet.

In commenting on the fact that a person may be thoroughly equipped on the scientific side of music without being sensitive to its beauty as an art, Gustav Koller in his book "How to Appreciate Music" quotes the witty distinction which Edmund Clarence Steadman draws in his "Nature Elements of Poetry" between the indications of a storm as described by a poet and by the official prognostications of the weather bureau.

Mr. Steadman gives two stanzas: When depends on the Atlantic the gigantic storm wind of the equinox. Landward in his wrath he scourges the rolling surges.

Laden with seaweed from the rocks. And this stanza by a later balladist: The east wind zephyr, all unknown. A thick sea cloud his course before. He left by night the frozen sea. And betwixt the cliffs of Labrador. He isashed the coasts on either hand. And betwixt the Cape and Newfoundland. Into the bays his armies pour.

METAL MAGICIANS.

The Wonders of Labor Saving Devices

When McCormick built his first hundred reapers in 1845, he paid 4 1/2 cents for bolts. That was in the mythical age of hand labor. Today fifty bolts are made for a cent. So with many things. McCormick paid 24 cents each when James K. Polk was in the White House. Now there is a ferocious machine which with the least possible assistance from one man cuts up 1,300 guard fingers in ten hours at a labor cost of a cent for six. Also while exploring one of the Chicago factories I came upon a herd of cut chewing machines that were crunching out chain links at the rate of 50,000 a year. Now by wire four smaller and more irritable automata which were biting off pieces of wire and chewing them into linchpins at a speed of 400,000 bites a day.

"Take out your watch and time this man," said the superintendent of the McCormick plant. "See how long he is in boring five holes in that great casting."

"Exactly six minutes," I answered. "Well, that's progress," observed the superintendent. "Before we bought that machine it was a matter of four hours to bore those holes."

THREE CURES OF SEVERE ECZEMA

Michigan Woman Tells of Her Brother's Terrible Suffering with the Disease—Grandchild and Another Baby also Permanently Cured.

CUTICURA REMEDIES PROVED INVALUABLE

"My brother had eczema three different summers. About the same time each summer it came out, but he was his shoulders and down his back, and he said the suffering was terrible. He used every kind of medicine that was said to be good for that disease, but nothing seemed to do him much good. When it came on the third summer, he bought a box of Cuticura Ointment and gave it a faithful trial. Soon he began to feel better and he cured himself entirely with Cuticura and has never been bothered with eczema since. He also used Cuticura to cure a burn over his eye and a terrible corn which was so bad that he could not wear his shoes. The lady in Indiana heard of how my daughter, Mrs. Miller, had cured her little son of terrible eczema by the Cuticura Remedies. This lady's little one had the eczema so badly that they thought they would lose it. She used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, and the disease never came back. Mrs. Sarah E. Lusk, of Peckham St., Colchester, Mich., Aug. 15 and Sept. 2, 1907."

NOW IS BEST

TIME TO TAKE.

Directions To Prepare Simple, Yet Remarkable Home Mixture.

A well-known authority on Rheumatism gives the readers of a large New York daily paper the following valuable, yet simple and harmless prescription, which any one can easily prepare at home.

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Mix by shaking well in a bottle, and take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

He states that the ingredients can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy at small cost, and, being of vegetable extraction, are harmless to take.

This pleasant mixture, if taken regularly for a few days, is said to overcome almost any case of Rheumatism. The pain and swelling, if any, diminishes with each dose until permanent results are obtained, and without injuring the stomach. While there are many so-called Rheumatism remedies, patent medicines, etc., some of which do give relief, few really give permanent results, and the above will, no doubt, be greatly appreciated by many sufferers here at this time.

Inquiry at the drug stores of this neighborhood elicits the information that these drugs are harmless and can be bought separately, or the druggists here will mix the prescription for our readers if asked to.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure, send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J.
